

L. P. Fisher, newspapers advertising agents, 21 Merchants' Exchange, San Francisco, is our authorized agent. This paper is kept on file in his office.

IS THIS THE LAW.

On August 20th, 1892, C. H. Gilman, of this city, was arrested for the crime of rape. That afternoon the Bee published very briefly the story of the woman, taking particular pains also to find Gilman and to obtain his statement, which it printed as he desired, after it had been read to him, in the same issue of the paper. The gist of the woman's story as printed was the same substantially as told to the Chief of Police and the Police Judge, upon which a warrant was issued, and upon which he was held to answer to the Superior Court by Police Judge R. O. Gravens. On habeas corpus proceedings subsequently, Gilman was released. Spurred on to it by malicious enemies of the Bee, he commenced a libel suit for $50,000 against this paper. In his decision upon the case—both sides having consented that it be tried by the Judge—Judge A. P. Catlin, of our Superior Court, found judgment against the proprietors of the Bee for $500 damages.

After publishing the Judge's decision the Bee says:

If Mr. C. H. Gilman is banking on getting $500, or any other sum, from this paper, he had better postpone his hilarity until he hears from the Supreme Court, for certainly the Bee does not propose to permit this matter to rest here. The fight has only commenced.

The Examiner further says:

Of course this absurd ruling will not stand. The way is quite smooth enough for the libertine, the footpad, the forger, the confidence man and the assassin now, without throwing the judicial ermine around them to shield them from the discomforts of publicity. The law very properly makes court proceedings privileged. It exempts a newspaper from any claim for damages for "a fair and true report, without malice, of a judicial, legislative, or other public official proceeding, or of anything said of the course thereof." There can be no logical ground of this exemption which would not equally excuse the publication of accounts of the preliminary stages of judicial proceedings, as in the Sacramento case, with the statements of the parties concerned.

The Bee was not merely justified in publishing a fair report of the Gilman case—it was bound to do so by its duty to its readers and to the community of which it is a servant. The duty of keeping the public enlightened is one for whose fulfillment the press has fought for two centuries. Step by step it has trampled down the barbarous old English law of libel, in the face of the dogged resistance of Judges and Parliaments, and it is not going to be forced back into the eighteenth century now. Of course the Bee will carry its case to the Supreme Court, and in doing so it will have the sympathy and support of the entire press of the State, whose cause it is maintaining.

The Post takes this view of the matter:

If this view of the law of libel is to stand, the liberty of the press is at an end. Not only will the burden of prosecuting persons accused of crime be shifted from the District Attorneys of the State to the editors of newspapers, but all any malefactor need do, in order to prevent the details of his offense being made public, will be to send in written denials. A more absurd view of the law of libel could scarcely be conceived.

Seigniorage Bill Vetoed.

In commenting on the veto of this bill by Cleveland, last night's Chronicle says:

The President has vetoed the Seigniorage bill, notwithstanding the fact that the Democrats from the West and South warned him that if he did so, they had no hope of reelection. But the President has shown himself to be as true to Wall street as is John Sherman. The message will be found in full in our telegraph columns.

It is the general opinion that the passage of an absolute free-coinage bill will be the result of the veto.
